After graduating from Illinois State University and the American Academy of Art, Kevin spent 13 years as a free-lance illustrator for several well known publishers including Viking Press, Penguin Publishing, Houghton Mifflin and Readers Digest. Growing tired of producing work to meet the demands of his clients, Kevin began painting full time and has continued to showcase his fine art throughout the United States. He resides in Chicago, IL with his wife and son.

Artist Statement:

"One can obviously see the beauty of God's creation in nature, but for me it is even more profound when I see and experience that beauty in people. There is always something new and awe-inspiring to discover when painting the human figure." – Kevin Beilfuss

Gallery Statement:

The Gallery is located in the Historic French Quarter in the heart of Gallery Row on Broad Street, a half block west of the Landmark Customs House behind the Walled Battery which has defended Charleston for centuries. “Part of what drew us to Charleston was the enduring nature of its architectural integrity. There is an aesthetic to the community which resonates with us and the kind of historically significant works we carry. Although we represent living painters we are increasingly conscious of the important place our artists hold in the history of contemporary art. Our artists have furthered realism & beauty against all odds, foregoing lesser, more expedient methods of painting & sculpting. The value of their works will stand the test of time, much like the integrity of the grand old buildings of Charleston,” says gallery owner, Maggie Kruger.

M Gallery offers museum quality art work that is competence based and created by nationally recognized living painters including: Robert Liberace, Clayton J Beck, III, Tony Pro, Sadie Valeri and several others.
