About the Artist: Nicolas Martin

Nicolas Martin (b. 1980) is a realist painter from Paris, who now lives and works in Montreal, Canada. After completing his studies at the respected Auguste Renoir school in Paris, Nicolas decided to deepen his artistic knowledge and diversify his skills by completing the Graphic Design program at the University of Laval in Quebec, Canada.

In 2003 he won first place in the La Fondation de la Vocation scholarship in Paris. Throughout his career, Martin has worked as a designer for the famous Galeries Lafayette in Paris and as Art Director for various companies in Europe and North America.

Nicolas started his career as a professional painter in 2013 with a highly successful solo show at the L'Oeil du Prince Gallery in Paris, followed by an equally successful solo exhibition there in 2014. In 2015 he made his U.S. debut in "Urban Life" at Abend Gallery in Denver, CO, and was a finalist at the respected Art Renewal Center Salon. He was also named "Artist to Watch" by Southwest Art Magazine.

Another highlight of Nicolas' career was his solo exhibition, "Cinemascope" held at the L'Oeil du Prince Gallery in 2016; the exhibition was highly acclaimed. Nicolas is proud to be exhibiting amongst so many successful artists. His work is widely collected in both Europe and North America. Nicolas' primary goal as a painter is constant evolution.
